NOW OR NEVER TO BUY FIELD, SAYS WIRTH; ASK $2,415,185

By JOHN KOENIG, JR.
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has been told that the opportunity is "now or never" for acquiring additional park lands for the Gettysburg and other Civil War battlefields.

Housing and commercial developments are fast encroaching on these and will make it impossible for them to be preserved as historic sites, said Conrad Wirth, director of the National Park Service.

Wirth's opinions were enlarged upon in a special statement included in a report of hearings by a House Appropriations Subcommittee for the Interior Department's budget.

The report noted that acquisition of Civil War battle sites desired by the National Park Service would cost an estimated $5,368,585.

$2 Million Here

Of this some $2,415,185 would be for additional land for the Gettysburg National Military Park. This largest of individual battlefield expenditures would be for 691 additional acres. The federal government now owns 2,272 acres. Wirth defended the program to be achieved over a period of years as containing only "those recommendations we feel sound."

Rep. Michael J. Kirwan (D-Ohio), subcommittee chairman, on the other hand criticized the proposed purchases as largely un-

U. S. EDUCATION SYSTEM BEST, SPEAKER SAYS

"Despite many loud voices raised to the contrary, we in America have the best education system in the world," Dr. George R. Seidel, manager of the education section of the Du Pont Co. Extension Division, told the Rotary Club Monday evening at its meeting in YWCA.

"We would be extremely foolish to model our education system after the Russian, as some suggest, or model it after any other system of education. This is not to suggest that our educational system cannot be improved, it can be and it will. But as it stands today it is the best in the world. I've been in industry for many years and I have seen some of the best products of education in 48 different countries. The products of American education are not only better when it comes to self-starterism, which is vitally important, but they also have the best knowledge of facts."

Four Pillars of America

"Another thing to remember is that our education system is attempting something never attempted anywhere — education for all. In no country of the world other than here can more than ten per cent of the youth hope for a higher than high school education. Here, today, anyone with the ability can get as much education as he wishes."

"We can imagine America as a four-legged table. And as you know a four-legged table is just as strong as each of its legs."

CONTESTS FOR ADAMS, LOCAL OFFICES LOOM

Monday was the last day for filing petitions for places on the ballot at the May primary, and when the day ended clerks for the county election board found there will be fights for a number of nominations—and numerous blank spaces on the ballot which the voters will have to fill with written-in votes.

While every district had at least two potential nominees, most districts will have some blank spaces on their ballots.

On the county level District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter is the only candidate for that office. He filed a petition to be placed on the Democratic ballot. There is no Republican candidate.

Some County Contests

Similarly Dr. C. G. Crist, county coroner for many years, is the only candidate for that office who filed. He is on the Republican ticket. There are no Democratic candidates.

No one filed a petition for county surveyor on either ticket.

But for such posts as commissioner and auditor there will be some fights. Each party will nominate two for commissioner. The Democrats have only two candidates, present Commissioner George E. Kane, of Biglerville R. 2, and Charles B. Bender, of Gettysburg. The Republicans have five seeking the two nominations, Commissioner E. Donald Scott, Gettysburg; Clarence J. Waybright, Gettysburg R. 2; Donald Hall, Orrtanna R. 1; Raymond Jacobs, East Berlin R. 2, and George Ackerson, Gettysburg.

Contest For Auditors

Commissioner J. Blaine Bushey is not a candidate for re-election, having filed no petition.

Presbyterians Are Not Buying

Gettysburg Presbyterians at a special congregational meeting Monday evening decided against spending $55,000 for the Warren property which adjoins the church property on the south along Baltimore St. The vote was 82 in favor of buying and 89 against.

It was the second time the question had been before the church members. A special congregational meeting was held February 22 when the report of the building and renovating committee, recommending that the property not be purchased, was received. After several hours of debate that evening, a motion to buy lost when the church members tied at 57 for and 57 against.

The church holds an option to buy the property. The option expires on Friday and will not be taken up following Monday's action.

The pastor, the Rev. Robert A. MacAskill, presided at the meeting and conducted the opening devotions. Monday's meeting lasted only about an hour.

UPPER ADAMS PUPILS GATHER USED CLOTHES

The 1,400 students in the Upper Adams School System are collecting bundles of used clothing during World Clothing Week.

Supervising Principal Donald B. Hudson said the drive will continue through Friday and is part of a nationwide campaign to raise enough used clothing, shoes and bedding to clothe one million orphaned and needy children and adults in the United States and overseas.

World Clothing Week is conducted in the schools in cooperation with the Christian Children's Fund, Inc., an international charitable organization which assists orphans and other needy children in the United States and 36 countries overseas.

Sponsored By Hi-Y

Hudson termed the clothing collection "one of the finest service projects ever conducted by our schools. The clothing helps needy children some of whom can't attend school regularly because they have no coat or shoes. It also aids orphans and needy adults in the U.S. and overseas. The clothing and bedding is distributed also during disaster emergency situations such as are occasioned by floods, tornadoes or earthquakes. Every student has been given literature to take home explaining the purpose of the drive and asking the cooperation of parents and friends."

"In addition to helping see that many needy boys and girls will be warmly clad, the drive for clothing will also provide for our school students a valuable lesson in humanity and permit them to experience the joy that comes with sharing with those less fortunate."

He added that in the Upper Adams system the project is sponsored by the Hi-Y Club of Biglerville High School of which Kenneth Gentzler is president and Arthur M. Gordon, faculty advisor.

Eisenhower Serves Warning On Russian Rulers U.S. Will Fight To Preserve Berlin

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER

Heavy Flow Of Messages Support Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today it has received an unusually heavy flow of telegrams, practically all of them favorable, on President Eisenhower's TV-radio address on the Berlin crisis.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said more than 600 messages had come in by 8:00 a.m. and that virtually all endorsed the President's stand.

Only about 20, Hagerty said, were less than 100 per cent in agreement with Eisenhower's position that the Western powers will not get out of Berlin but will agree to a summit conference if a preliminary meeting of foreign ministers indicates something worthwhile could be accomplished.

"The President will not hold a news conference this week," Hagerty indicated the President's heavy schedule this week, including hospitality for visiting Irish President Sean T. O'Kelly and the later arrival of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, would rule out his regular Wednesday meeting with newsmen.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, in perhaps the greatest and most significant address of his administration, served warning on the Russian rulers that the United States will not give one inch in its responsibility to protect two million Berliners.

The complete text of his radio-TV address from his office in The White House Monday evening follows in full:

Tonight I want to talk with you about two subjects:

One is about a city that lies four thousand miles away.

It is West Berlin. In a divided world it has been, for a decade, a symbol of freedom. But recently its name has come to symbolize, also, the efforts of imperialistic communism to divide the Free World, to throw us off balance and to weaken our will for making certain of our collective security.

Next, I shall talk to you about the state of our nation's posture of defense and the Free World's capacity to meet the challenges that the Soviets incessantly pose to peace and to our own security.

120,000 ARE EXPECTED IN IRISH PARADE

By IRISH DONNELLY
NEW YORK (AP) — Free and frisky Irishmen gathered today for the St. Patrick's Day parade. An estimated 120,000 sons and daughters of Erin assembled in 62 battalions for the Fifth Avenue march in honor of Ireland's patron saint.

The old avenue sported a green traffic stripe. Police worked all night erecting barriers to restrain an estimated million spectators. The parade was expected to last some five hours.

Harry M. Hynes, a portly, ruddy-faced Irishman attired in high silk hat and tailcoat, was making his debut as producer of one of the oldest, biggest and most splendid annual parades in the United States.

Sheahan Is Ill

This was the first time in 24 years that the event was not under the guidance of John J. Sheahan, sidelined by illness.

The music of the day from hundreds of bands given places in the parade included such Irish favorites as "Garryowen," "The Wearing of the Green" and "O'Donnell Abu."

Among the musicians was the St. Laurence O'Toole Pipe Band of Dublin, a sight to behold in green kilts with navy blue jackets trimmed in green and white.

The "Fighting 69th," officially the 165th Infantry Regiment of the New York National Guard, had the honor of showing the way along Fifth Avenue for the 108th consecutive year, with its 38-piece band.

Howard Ehmke, 65, Ex-A's Star, Dies

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Howard Ehmke, a pitcher for the old Philadelphia Athletics, died in a hospital today. He was 65.

Ehmke's career was highlighted in his fading baseball years when, at the age of 36, Manager Connie Mack called on him as a surprise starter in the 1929 World Series against the Chicago Cubs.

Ehmke responded by pitching a masterful game with 13 strikeouts. That stood as a World Series record until Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants struck out 14 New York Yankees in the 1935 World Series.

Decision Near On Loan Limit Boost

HARRISBURG (AP) — A proposed increase in the constitutional limit on school district borrowing moved toward a final decision in the Legislature today.

The House approved the constitutional amendment unanimously Monday night, 203-0, and sent it to the Senate. It passed the last session of the Legislature and favorable action by the Senate this time will place it on the ballot in November for final consideration of the voters.

The amendment would permit a district to borrow up to 15 percent of the assessed value of taxable property in the district. However, any increase over five percent would require approval of the district's voters.

BRITISH LIKE IKE'S SPEECH

LONDON (AP) — President Eisenhower's speech on the Berlin crisis and the possibility of a summit conference won a hearty welcome in West Germany and Britain today.

Elsewhere in Western Europe it received top play in the press, although there was no immediate editorial or official reaction.

Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin said the speech "reaffirms our conviction that we can truly count on our American friends."

The British Foreign Office had no formal comment. British officials said privately they regarded it as an excellent speech.

A spokesman for the West German government in Bonn declared Eisenhower had given a timely warning of possible catastrophe, while making known his readiness to negotiate.

First Communist reaction came from ADN, the East German news agency. It declared the speech made it plain that the United States "would not be afraid to unleash a war."

DRY AND COOL IN EAST AREAS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dry and fairly cool weather prevailed in most of the eastern half of the nation today in the wake of snow, rain and wind storms.

Skies also were clear from the Rockies westward to the Pacific Coast, with a general warming trend reported in most areas.

There were a few wet spots. Moderate to heavy rain fell in most sections of Florida. The wet belt extended into southern Georgia and the Carolina coast and eastern Louisiana. Showers sprinkled parts of the western Gulf.

Light snow spread eastward from southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois across Indiana and lower Michigan and headed into the Northeast. Falls were generally from one to two inches.

The weekend storms were blamed for at least 11 deaths while seven other persons died from heart attacks induced by overexertion in the heavy snow. Fires, one of winter's major hazards, killed 43 persons. Heaviest snows were in the Midwest while gale-like winds whipped sections of the midcontinent and into the Northeast.

ATHENS GREET GREEK HERO

ATHENS (AP)—The people of Athens gave a rousing hero's welcome today to Col. George Grivas, commander of the Greek EOKA underground's four-year war against British rule of the island of Cyprus.

Grivas flew from Cyprus to Athens to live in retirement.

With tears rolling down his face, Grivas made plain he dreams of returning to Cyprus in the future.

He presented the mayor of Athens with a bit of soil taken from his mountain hideout that served as his headquarters in the fight against the British.

"This bit of soil," he said, "will be the link between Cyprus and Greece."

It's been told in song and story . . . it's been said in lilting rhyme . . . when Irish eyes are smiling . . . joyful bells are sure to chime . . . for the Irish have a magic way . . . of making people glad . . . it is a priceless thing to cheer . . . the folks who might be sad . . . this gift alone sets them apart . . . from ordinary streams . . . and who is there who can deny . . . the charm of Irish themes . . . and so on each St. Patty's Day . . . TITLE ACTIONS
FILED IN COURT

The Adams County court has been asked to declare mineral rights to a Straban Twp. property given 80 years ago no longer valid and to remove a judgment issued against a property 89 years ago in two actions to quiet title filed with the prothonotary's office.

Frank H. Deatrack, 112 Baltimore St., through his attorney, Donald M. Swope, wants the court to declare the old claims against a 155-acre property in Straban Twp. invalid in order to obtain a clear title to the property which he secured from Boreas and Liza Deatrack.

According to the one action, against David and Amanda Brown, their heirs, Boreas Deatrack, in 1870, when he purchased the property from Mr. and Mrs. Brown, also gave a note for $2,300. The note was recorded as a judgment against the property, according to the petition, but whether it was paid or not no one knows—nor has the judgment ever been revived. After 89 years, the court is asked to decree that the judgment was satisfied.

The other action is against William Anderson, Adams Forney and P. F. Kelley and their assigns. It is based on mineral rights given by Boreas Deatrack to the three men in 1879. Apparently no attempt ever was made to take minerals from the farm property, and the court is asked now, 80 years later, to declare the rights expired.

U. S. EDUCATION

Three can be strong, but without a fourth the table topples. One leg is the home, and the home is just as good as you or I. Another is the church, and again the church is just a collection of individuals; it is as good as the you and I who make it up. The third is the school, and again, since the school is made up of all of us, it is just as good as we want it to be. The fourth is industry, again merely a collection of individuals.

"You notice that I did not include government as one of the legs. There is a reason for that. Government does not support America, it is supported by America. If the four legs are strong, the government — which again is just an extension of each of us, is good. If the church, home, school and industry are weak, the government will be weak.

Defends "Bigness"

"And basically church, home, school and industry are not really the legs on which America stands. The legs are us, each and every one of us, because we are the church, the home, the school, industry and the government.

"There have been criticisms leveled against bigness in industry, and I want to point out that the church, home and school are also 'big business.' In industry we need both big and small businesses. We need businesses big enough to have staff enough to be able to carry on the research that is needed if we are to be strong. I know, for I worked in a small laboratory where there were, but two of us — we could do what we could do with four hands between us. In big business there is a whole team that can specialize and carry on work that could never be done otherwise. We must be sure we retain business big enough to serve us, to protect us and to maintain our freedom and living standards."

President David Blocher and Vice President John A. MacPhail reported on the Rotary district meeting being held at Hershey. Fifty-three attended the meeting. Group singing was led by Attorney MacPhail with Dr. Kenneth Smoke at the piano.

Women's hoop skirts began to be a major fashion in 1859. It was an extra boost to industry because it opened a market for wire to make the skirts billow out.

but lost to Hershey, eastern tidbit; for the overall championship. Three returning lettermen give New Oxford a good outlook again this season.

Attorney Donald G. Oyer, for the civic improvement committee, reported that he anticipates completing his committee and holding a meeting in the near future.

Reports Route 36 Plans

President Estep reported that the state is planning to make the present three-lane "new Lincoln Highway" west of McKnightstown through the mountains into a four-lane highway. Parts of the new road through the Caledonia area are at present four-lane. The plan is to add a lane to the present three-lane section, Estep said.

General discussion was held on two problems—parking and "high pressure" visiting salesmen. Councilman Glenn Guise, who is also a director of the Chamber, reported he had been able to secure four of the five men needed for a municipal parking authority authorized by council, but also added that there is a possibility of private enterprise setting up additional off-street parking centers.

"High Pressure" Salesmen

The board allocated $150 for use of each of its three committees: Parking, civic improvement and industrial, and budgeted $250 toward advertising and promotion.

Concerning "high pressure salesmen" the board made it clear that the Chamber of Commerce does not give authority to any outside salesman to use its name—after reports showed that several such salesmen recently apparently intimidated they had Chamber approval, if they did not actually state that the Chamber gave them backing. According to the reports the salesmen apparently visited the Chamber office, were told they would receive no sponsorship from the Chamber, but when they visited potential customers spoke of having been "up at the Chamber office" without revealing that they had been turned down in their quest.

"We have enough land at Gettysburg," said Kirwan. "There is no use taking any more."

"We already have almost 18,000 acres of Civil War battlefield sites and they want us to acquire over 9,000 more."

"What is going to happen when the Spanish-American War criers come along and the First and Second World Wars and Korean War? There will not be enough land left in the country to buy places for them."

Kirwan said he had been through the Gettysburg Battlefield many times. The guides gave us the history," he said. "They have the land where the important part of the battle was fought. Now we are going back into the suburbs."

"Why should we reach out and take more? Why not take the land where they marched up the valleys nearby in Maryland? Why not take that? That has about the same significance as the area where the battle was fought."

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Notice: We the undersigned milliners of Gettysburg have agreed to close our stores at 8 p.m. during the months of April, May and June (Saturday nights excepted): Miss Anna Reek, Mrs. Amy Reiley, Miss Anna Hollebaugh, Miss Rose Stock, Steffy & Power.

Dynamite Explodes: Thirty-six sticks of dynamite exploded Friday morning at the home of Harvey S. Cromer near Mount Joy church, close to Barlow, blowing to atoms a smokehouse, demolishing a woodhouse and causing a report which was heard for five miles.

Mr. Cromer was drying the dynamite in the smoke house which also contained the meat of three hogs. Fortunately Mr. Cromer and his family were at breakfast when the explosion occurred and no one was hurt. What caused the trouble is not known. The explosion caused a terrible report and rocked the dwelling which adjoined the wood shed and smoke house.

Mr. Cromer and his family started to flee in terror from their home, thinking that an earthquake was about to take place. They soon thought of the dynamite however and when they went out to where the smoke house had stood a few minutes before, they found nothing but a heap of ruins.

Cast Of Play: A great deal of interest is being manifested in Aspers and in Bendersville over the play to be given at Fruit Growers' Hall in the latter place next Saturday evening for the benefit of the Aspers Circulating Library.

The cast for the play entitled "Out in the Streets" is as follows: Dennis Asper, Melvin Cook, Charles Asper, Robert Hawbecker, Ira A. Mummert, Oscar Baugher, Pearl Rice, Ora Asper, Pluvia Epleman, Ruth Lawyer. In addition to the play there will be readings by Misses Eva Rice and Ethel Baugher, a declamation by Ira Mummert and music directed by Prof. Ira Taylor, consisting of choruses, quartets, sextets and solos.

Tramp Nuisance To Be Stopped: Burgess Holtzworth together with the police force today started a crusade on the Knights of the Road who have been invading Gettysburg for the past few months and the officers of the law have been instructed by the Burgess to use all measures necessary to rid the town of all undesirable characters.

Chief Gordon, who was put on the night force several months ago in order to give the town better fire protection during the winter months, has again been given day work and it will be one of his duties now to keep the tramps out of town during the daylight hours. Officer O'Reilly will have the same task to perform at night.

In discussing the situation this morning Chief Gordon said the reason for the unusually large number of tramps in Gettysburg was the fact that the whole Knight of the Road fraternity was aware there was no day officer in Gettysburg. He said that two weeks after the papers published the fact that both officers would be on a night all the tramps in the state knew it.

The roadsters are great readers and watch up all matters pertaining to themselves.

Local News Happenings: Miss Rose Stock will move her millinery store April 1 from its present location to the Martin store room in the building recently purchased by William McSherry, Esq.

Miss Louise Stahl will entertain the members of her Sunday School class and the members of the Reformed church choir at her home on Baltimore street Monday evening.

Today's Talk

INITIATIVE

Men of initiative touch men of motion. Then an explosion of thoughts are released and men get things done, and become creators. All starts are important, for then the efficient and inefficient separate, and we have our poets, our great novelists, and our cities on the march skyward! It is inspiring to look upon success in embryo, and try to note in our daily lives where men get their cue to distinction.

Initiative is something with which we are born. It lies half way between the mind and the heart, but must have the desire and the dream to flash it to the world. The longer it remains inactive, less is its chance for permanent survival. Initiative has to have its first big birth.

Initiative might be termed the spark of life. Once it creates a flame in the soul, it's on its way to great things in the world. Initiative says: Get the thing done! The teacher of Thomas Edison sent him home with a note to his mother saying that her boy was too "stupid," but that mother knew otherwise. She said she would teach him herself. To that mother the world owes a debt that can never be paid. The things that Edison invented inspired a world! Initiative sprouted from every cell of his God-given brain.

Men of action have always been men of initiative with an inborn incentive. It's a precious substance that only the great know anything about. If we don't start things there is nothing to hope for, nothing to inspire us on, nothing to fulfill our desire to be useful and inspiring to others.

Just Folks

THE DAY OF DAYS
We'll join with you at Christmastime,
On Easter we'll be gay,
We'll shoot firecrackers on the Fourth,
And greet you New Year's day.

But now we'll don our shiny hats
And shirts, all stiff with starch,
For 'tis the day for Irishmen—
The seventeenth of March.

We weep with you Memorial day,
For kin of ours have bled
And given up their lives to keep The Stars and Stripes
d'erhead;

But just as long as freedom lives
And God's skies gently arch
Will Irish celebrate alone
The seventeenth of March.

Council Hears Many Matters: An adjourned meeting of the town council was held Tuesday evening. A number of important matters were discussed.

Fire Marshall McClellan appeared in behalf of the Fire Company as King that warm water be kept in the fire engine. The matter received considerable attention and after discussion was referred to the Property committee.

The attention of Mr. McClellan was called to the fact that the fire engine is often removed from the engine house before fire in it is properly started and as a result embers drop along the street, making a new fire necessary and losing valuable time. Council contended that the engine should be allowed to stand in front of the engine house until the fire had gotten a fair start, saying that steam would be gotten much sooner if such a course were pursued.

In answer to this Mr. McClellan said: "Gentlemen, those are the instructions which our chief has given in the company. We have been told to allow the engine to stand in front of the house as you have indicated, but the trouble is that frequently citizens, not members of the company, who help pull the engine, do not observe this. At a recent fire one of the officers of the department ordered those who were about to pull the engine, to allow it to stand for a few moments in front of the house. In return for this received a cursing from one of your prominent citizens."

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The Naval Air Station here was so busy it didn't take time to celebrate its 40th anniversary. It was commissioned in 1918 with equipment of six tents and six seaplanes. Now it is one of the largest and most powerful facilities of its type in the world.

THE INCREDIBLE POWER OF LOVE

By Nathaniel Kaplan
Justice, Domestic Relations Court
New York City

On the evening of May 3, 1956, Ronnie Lennox, 12, went off to play in the gym of his public school. A few minutes later a neighbor rushed in yelling that Ronnie was lying on the sidewalk, blood pouring from a hole in his right temple.

Nathaniel Kaplan

Before the ambulance reached the hospital, Ronnie was dead. Let's call the boy who did it Peter. There are two versions of what happened: One is that Peter was playing with an old umbrella as Ronnie came by.

"I can stab you with this—dare me?" Peter demanded. Unexpectedly he plunged the tip of the umbrella in Ronnie's direction. It pierced Ronnie's temple. The other version holds that Peter was swinging the umbrella like a baseball bat, using a watermelon rind for a ball, and as Ronnie passed by he walked into the point of the umbrella.

Agonies Of Soul
"We must believe it was an accident," Mrs. Dora Lennox told me when she first unfolded the tragic story in court. But I can only guess what agonies of soul she suffered before she was able to say that.

"I prayed that I could overcome hate," she admitted. "I wasn't sure I could."

She told me of her visit to Peter's home. Wondering why Peter's parents had not called on her, she decided to go to them. The mother and father, who ran a tavern, seemed completely indifferent. Then Peter came in to the room. Mrs. Lennox looked at him, trying to stifle the bitterness surging within her. He had an appealing smile, frightened eyes.

They talked for a while—Peter measuring her with open fear at first, then suspicion, waiting. But all too quickly Mrs. Lennox realized how cruelly and completely Peter was rejected by his parents. Nobody wanted this boy.

Her Heart Opened
Then, on impulse, she asked: "Would you like to go to the funeral?"

Peter was incredulous. Then he burst out: "It was an accident. I swear it was!" He looked down at his feet. "I'll go to the funeral if you want me."

"Only if you want to," said Mrs. Lennox.

Peter nodded. "I want to."

Her heart opened to him. The day before the funeral Peter came to the Lennox house carrying a spray of flowers. He handed them to Mrs. Lennox together with his gay-colored hat.

"Ronnie always wanted one like this," he said.

Ronnie was buried wearing the hat. Peter did not attend the funeral. Neighborhood feeling was high, and the police had decided that Peter better stay away.

When the police asked her if she wanted to lodge any charge against Peter, she asked: "How would it help Ronnie, or any of us, if we did anything to Peter?"

Needed Love
"Peter needed love so badly," she told me in court. "The first time I asked him to come and see me he walked off, then turned around and asked me: 'You sure you want me to come? You sure?'"

At first he came once a day, then twice, and even three times. He told Mrs. Lennox all about himself. He had a sordid history of delinquency. He was not reporting regularly to his parole officer, so Mrs. Lennox took him whenever he had to go.

When her family objected to her efforts for Peter, she said simply: "Our memory of Ronnie will be richer if we help Peter."

One night the police telephoned Mrs. Lennox that Peter had served as the lookout for two boys who had tried to rob a store. Her faith did not waver. It was Dora Lennox, not his parents, who appeared in my court the next morning. And her plea was reasonable:

Brain Injury?

"After 14 years of being on the wrong end, Peter can't be expected to be completely and suddenly right. Please don't destroy the little faith and assurance we've given him."

Then she told of discovering that, before the terrible accident with her son, Peter had been hitching on the back of a bus when he fell off and was hurled against a parked car. He broke his leg and had to have 29 stitches in his head. It was her theory that Peter might have a brain injury which could be driving him toward delinquency.

I ordered an examination and an encephalograph for Peter. During these studies, he was kept in a city shelter.

On visiting days Mrs. Lennox was there, with shoes, clothes, little gifts. And at each visit Peter would give her, with much pride, something he had made himself, a set of pot-holders, a little mat, a small corner knick-knack shelf.

Responds To Treatment

The doctors concluded that there had been a brain injury, but whether surgery would help was problematical. I conferred with a psychiatrist who said that Peter should be given therapy. He was committed to the State Training School at Warwick, New York. The latest report is that he is responding to treatment.

Recently Mrs. Lennox came to see me again, and told me that her husband was looking for a job in California. As soon as he finds one, she would like to move her entire family out there. "And I'd like to take Peter with us, if you'll let me," she said. "His happiness with us didn't last very long. Maybe, out there, he could get away from many things that are no good here."

Surpassed Any Event

This extraordinary appeal surpassed any event in my seven years as a judge, or as chairman of the New York City Youth Board. Here was I, reared in the Jewish faith, listening to the eloquent plea of a Protestant woman to help a boy baptized a Catholic who had killed her own son.

In my book it said: "Thou shalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people, but thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

And in the Book of Dora Lennox, Jesus said: "There is none other commandment greater than these."

I prayed that I would remember both when the moment of decision came.

Skunk Stops Meet; Evacuates Hotel

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The sales meeting of a typewriter firm at a hotel turned out to be a stinking affair.

Ed Valentine took what he thought was a de-odorized skunk to the meeting as a prize in a sales contest.

The skunk got nervous and smelled up the place. That broke up the meeting.

The odor wafted into the air conditioning system, forcing temporary evacuation of five floors of the hotel as well as the dining room and lounge.

EIGHT KILLED IN CAR COLLISION

KINGMAN, Ariz. (AP)—A head-on collision 40 miles northeast of this northern Arizona city snuffed out eight lives Sunday night and injured four others, two critically. Highway Patrol Sgt. Floyd Cisney identified these dead in one car:

Joe Williams, 32; John Collins, 32; Hattie Williams and Mary Collins, all of Peach Springs. Peach Springs is on the Hualapai Indian reservation, two miles west of the accident scene on U.S. 66.

Killed in the other vehicle were Henry Manuel Goke, 38, of Albuquerque, N.M., the driver; Gertrude Chavez, 24, of Long Beach, Calif., and her infant son, Richard; and Josie Campbell, 2, also of Long Beach. Relationship of the Campbell child was not determined immediately.

Cisney said Williams strayed over the center line and smashed into the other auto.

STATE PUBLIC AID BOARD TO FACE ISSUES

HARRISBURG (AP)—Recommendations for higher relief standards in Pennsylvania were ready for consideration today by the state Public Assistance Board.

The board also was expected to discuss further a resolution it passed earlier, allowing case workers to recommend birth control methods to relief recipients not opposed on religious grounds to the idea.

A committee of three persons was named at the board's last meeting to study testimony given at four public hearings on present relief standards.

Committee members Alvin Guyler, Emory Bacon and Mrs. Wilhelmina Brown, all of Pittsburgh, prepared the report from testimony at hearings in Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Wilkes-Barre.

Still Unsettled

Gov. Lawrence's budget proposes a 12-million-dollar increase for relief programs compared to a boost of 100 millions recommended in the Woodberry Report submitted after an independent study by a group of experts.

The state Justice Department recently ruled that the board is the policy-making body for the huge department. But the legal opinion left unsettled the birth control issue and a Justice Department spokesman said at the time that another ruling might be necessary on the question.

Mrs. Ruth Grigg Horting, public welfare secretary, has taken no stand on the board's resolution. Her predecessor, Harry Shapiro, refused to implement the resolution on the grounds the board lacked authority to fix public welfare policies.

IT'S ABOUT TIME

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Emily Mitchell and Thomas McKnight were married in a quiet church ceremony Sunday, then settled back in their rocking chairs to admire flowers from friends. They had known each other nearly half a century.

The bride is 90, the groom 85.

TV VIEWERS MORE VOCAL ON AIR FARE

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—One positively apparent trend in television this season is that an increasing number of viewers are becoming vocal about what they see on the home screen.

Within two days, for example, this department heard from Robert McGrath, Editor of the Hobbs Daily News-Sun, Hobbs, N. M., criticizing Leonard Bernstein's Feb. 28 classical music program for children.

"He brought up what he called the 'humor' in music, and to Bernstein 'humor' is, as he said, the 'incongruous.' That word is incongruous is from a script written by Bernstein. Can you define it exactly? Surely not one child in 20 knew what he was talking about. I think he meant unexpected rather than incongruous."

Grave Misgivings
"But how can the unexpected in music—that is, the changes in key, tempo, and so forth—be humorous to children when they don't know in the first place what to expect? Nor do the majority of adults know what to expect in classical musical piece."

Comment: I can't define "incongruous" exactly. But Webster's Unabridged defines it as "characterized by lack of harmony, consistency or compatibility with one another." Charles Dickens once said that the incongruous is a basic element in humor. But I think it's stretching the theory pretty far to apply to music.

From Mrs. Willis Rothgeb, Winthrop, Wash., expressing grave misgivings whether children ever get the point that "crime doesn't pay" on the shoot-em-up TV programs.

Urges Re-runs

"We have three channels available on television. The other night we tuned in on a station: Nothing but killing. So we turned to a second: As it came on, two men were shot down. We tried the third—only to find that the program had more murder. We turned off the set."

Comment: The box score on New York stations one night recently was five killed, eight wounded.

From Mrs. Parker Boggs of Loyall, Ky., urging that some good TV programs be re-run on weekday mornings. Two she specifically mentions are Edward R. Murrow's "Small World" and "Person to Person."

Comment: I agree it's a good idea. But the problem in all TV re-runs is basically economic. After clearances and payments of residual rights, a re-run is almost as expensive as an original show in many cases.

Upstate Woman, 86, Fatally Injured

FLEMINGTON, Pa. (AP)—Mrs. Maggie Bressler, 86, of this Clinton County community, was fatally injured Saturday night when she was struck by a car as she walked along a road near her residence. She died later in Lock Haven hospital.

Police Chief Lester H. Moore of Flemington identified the driver of the car as Carl W. Royer, of Millheim. Moore said Royer told him he was unable to see Mrs. Bressler as she stood in the center of an intersection in the road dressed in dark clothing.

Mrs. Bressler was the mother of former major league baseball player, Raymond (Rube) Bressler who retired from baseball in 1930 after playing 20 years with the Cincinnati and Boston Braves teams as a utility man and pitcher.

LOTS OF IRISH AT NOTRE DAME

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—How in the name of St. Patrick can Notre Dame be called the home of the Irish?

A question like this is a natural reaction to the school's football lineups over the past several seasons.

So Notre Dame has approximately 5,300 students who do not play football. And of these, at least 20 per cent can trace their ancestry back to the Emerald Isle.

Most common last name on campus is Murphy. Forty-two students answer to it, as well as four faculty members, and the director of public information.

There are 125 undergraduates whose names begin with O'. Among them are 20 O'Connors and 19 O'Briens.

Some parts of the student directory read like the tax rolls at Dublin. No less than 37 Sullivans are listed, along with 31 Ryans, 26 Kellys and a dozen Burkes. And if ever they should form a band, perhaps one of the half-dozen McNamaras could lead it.

TOKYO (AP)—The Soviet Union Monday handed over 13 Japanese fishermen seized Jan. 28 on charges of trespassing on Soviet territorial waters.

The Soviets confiscated the fishing vessel.

So far, the Soviets have seized five Japanese vessels and three crewmen this year. Last year, the Soviets seized 547 fishermen and 79 boats, of which 49 boats and 327 men were later returned.

SAYS WOMAN NEEDS EXTRA LIFE INTEREST

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

A woman with a job can face whatever fate deals out, says Mollie Parnis, a woman with a job.

For 25 years, Mollie and her husband, Leon J. Livingston, carried on a highly successful dress manufacturing business in New York. Mollie did the designing and Leon handled the business end. One of their most famous customers was Mamie Eisenhower.

Then, not quite a year ago, Mollie walked into her husband's office and found him dead of a heart attack. For Mollie, it seemed the end of the world. This was a closer association than most marriages: not only husband and wife, but also business partners.

"Back At Old Stand"

So Mollie closed up one of the biggest dress businesses in the country, and stayed home with her grief and her memories.

"I was completely lost," says the attractive, talented designer. "I felt I couldn't go on without Leon, and yet I couldn't find anything to fill up the days when I didn't have work to do. There is nothing worse than waking up in the morning with nobody to talk to and nothing to do."

Mollie Parnis missed only one collection. Now she is back doing business at the old stand, looking her old vital self. She has a new business partner, Adolph Klein, who guided the destinies of the late Claire McCordell, and who is continuing his own manufacturing business while also managing business details for Mollie.

Need Absorbing Interest

"Life has to go on," says Mollie. "I never realized how lucky I was to have a job until I gave it up. Now that I'm back in business I never want to quit again until they carry me out."</

OKLAHOMA CITY CAGERS DEPEND ON TWO INDIANS

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—"Circle the wagons, boys, the Redskins are coming."

Nope, it's not another TV-Western. It's the rallying cry of the New York University basketball team tonight at Madison Square Garden.

NYU plays Oklahoma City University in the quarter-finals of the National Invitation Tournament and the Oklahomans have two full-blooded Indians in their lineup. They are Fred Yeahquo and Bud Sahmaunt, cousins from the Kiowa tribe. Without them, says Oklahoma City Coach Abe Lemons, his team might not be able to beat a rug.

Sub Made Good
"We used Yeahquo as a substitute for a while and we found him coming in and scoring 10 or 12 points almost before you noticed it," says Lemons. "We had to promote him to starter."

Sahmaunt is a guard, one of the fastest and most aggressive men on the squad."

NYU is favored by eight points over the relatively small Chiefs. In the other game, the towering St. Louis Billikens (average height: 6-5), play Providence. The winners meet Bradley and St. John's, respectively, in the semi-finals.

St. Louis also is an eight-point choice.

Billy O'Dell Hit By Muscle Injury

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Baltimore Oriole pitcher Billy O'Dell, who strained a back muscle reaching for a fly ball, will have to submit to a couple days of heat and massage.

An orthopedic surgeon Monday examined the left-hander's injury incurred on Sunday. Dr. Arthur Weiland of Miami said an X-ray was negative and added, "I'm sure that what he did was to pull some of the soft muscle tissue away from the ribs."

"It's funny how things like this happen," O'Dell commented. "I pitched six hard innings Friday and felt great. Then Sunday, I'm running in the outfield, reach up for a fly ball and pull a muscle. I've never had one in my life before."

New members will be received at the 10:30 service Easter. The Lenten self-denial offering for Lutheran World Action will be received at any of the services on Easter.

Ethel Garder, Arrie Austin, Emma Stitley, Louise Riffle and Nellie Lambert were named delegates to the state convention in Ocean City in June during the recent meeting of the Taneytown Fire Co. Auxiliary. Helen Smeak, Grace Putman, Dottie Baker, Janet Parrish and Dot Wachter were named alternates.

The auxiliary submitted Mrs. Austin's name for state guard. These committees were appointed for the public card party which the auxiliary will hold April 23 in the Opera House: Refreshments, Pauline Vaughn, Mollie Crouse, Beulah Sauble and Marguerite Six; tables, LaRea Crobbes, Rhoda Smith and Edna Hess; prizes, Bessie Dougherty, Elizabeth Baumgardner and Margaret Eckard; tickets, Naomi Dodder.

DICKIE MOORE NEAR NHL TITLE

MONTREAL (AP)—A zephyr-like drive in the past month has taken Montreal's Dickie Moore to the threshold of his second straight National Hockey League scoring title, according to statistics released today.

At the same time, linemate Jean Beliveau has teamed to make the Montreal Canadiens even tougher to beat in the upcoming Stanley Cup playoffs, despite the absence of injured Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Bernie Geoffrion.

Moore has scored nine goals and 22 assists since Feb. 17, to advance from fourth place to the league lead with 92 points, three shy of Detroit star Gordie Howe's record set in 1952-53.

Beliveau tallied 17 goals and 14 assists over the same period since teaming with Moore and little Marcel Bonin on a line created through injuries. He is second in the scoring race with 87 points.

New York's Andy Bathgate led on Feb. 17 with 65 points. He has hummed along with 11 goals and nine assists, but is third today with 85 points.

MONZANT MAY PLAY BASEBALL FOR HIS PRICE

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
The strange case of Ramon Monzant took on a bright green hue today.

Monzant has turned in his strike placard and taken up the cudgels of the anti-tax fanatics.

The San Francisco Giant pitcher, a fugitive from spring training camp holed out in Venezuela, has decided he would like to play major league baseball this season.

Ramon Fed Up
The right-hander, who compiled an 8-11 record in the 1958 campaign, said Monday the Giants could have his services if they meet his salary demands.

Ramon recently said he was fed up with baseball, having already wasted six unprofitable years in this country's favorite pastime, and was tossing away his resin bag. No amount of money, he said, could force him to reconsider his retirement plans.

The tempestuous Latin now wants $12,000 with $5,000 of that to be sent to him in advance—tax free!

Pirates Beat Reds
Monzant's demands were voiced on a slow day for exhibitions. Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati 4-1 and Kansas City dumped Detroit 6-0 in the only games played. The other teams were either idle or rained out.

Ted Kluszewski turned on his old teammates, cracking a home run and single for the Pirates. Big Klu's 390-160t homer against the Reds was his first of the year. Vernon Law and rookie Jim Hardison limited Cincinnati to two hits.

Two home runs and the combined five-hit pitching of Ned Garver and Walt Craddock brought the A's to the .500 mark in the exhibition standings. Rookie Kent Handley and Roger Maris powered the homers. It was Maris' first hit in 19 trips.

AF LAUNCHES MYSTERY SHOT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force has fired another mystery missile on a secret flight test.

The launching Monday was the first big ballistic noise heard at the Cape since March 3 when space probe Pioneer IV blasted aloft on the start of a half-million mile trip past the moon and around the sun.

The rocket, a two-stage solid fuel missile reportedly developed by McDonnell Aircraft, roared up on the second security-wrapped mission in a month.

No Comment
A terse no comment was the only reply from the Air Force concerning the mystery rocket which sources say is labeled "Project Draca." Air Force officials confirmed that a missile was fired but declined to discuss any details.

The McDonnell firm is developing a capsule to hurl the first man into space and is one of the bidders for the Air Force's project to develop a 1,000-mile range air-to-ground ballistic missile that could be fired from a plane traveling at supersonic speed.

Pay Tribute To Next To Last Of Gen. Lee's Army

GATE CITY, Va. (AP)—The hill country neighbors who loved him and an army for which he never fought began paying final homage today to John Salling, the next-to-last of the boys in gray.

Salling, 112, died Monday in nearby Kingsport, Tenn., after a short illness. His passing left Williams, 116, of Houston, Tex., the only surviving Civil War veteran.

Salling never saw combat. He never rose above the rank of private in "General Lee's army," with which he proudly identified himself. But he will go to his grave in the full dress uniform of a Confederate general and with full military honors from the Army of the United States.

A meeting of the Adams County Scholastic Baseball League officials will be held this evening at 7:30 at Biglerville High School. Plans for the coming season will be discussed and other business transacted.

SPRINTERS TO CLASH AGAIN

ODESSA, Tex. (AP)—Another Dave Sime-Bobby Morrow sprint duel with Glenn Davis thrown in has west Texas track fans agog this week.

It could be something of a preview of the 1960 Olympic Games—at least it will have two Olympic heroes, Morrow and Davis, and another who missed the glory because of an injury.

It will be the fourth time for Sime, the Duke comet, and Morrow, the Olympic sprint king from Abilene Christian College, to clash in the 100-yard dash. Sime, who beat Morrow at Big Spring, Tex., last year in the celebrated "race of the century," holds two decisions.

Morrow has said he wasn't in good condition and that the next time he met Sime he would be—and the result would be different.

Sime and Morrow clash in both the 100 and 220 as special events of the West Texas Relays Saturday. Davis will be with his Ohio State team to compete in the relays and will run the special events besides. Sime and Morrow are not eligible for the relays proper, having finished their college eligibility.

HANK BAUER GETS ALONG WITH CASEY

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Hank Bauer gets along fine with Casey Stengel now. It wasn't always that way. There was a time when Bauer wouldn't walk by his manager without muttering "that old so-and-so" under breath.

"Oh, we get along fine now," grinned the ju-jawed 10-year veteran of the New York Yankees. "He doesn't take me out of the lineup any more like he used to. He's a great manager and he's a helluva guy."

Bauer will be 37 his next birthday but he is listed as the team's regular right fielder.

Home Run Threat
Next to Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra, he is the Yankees' chief home run threat. Yet he has been the team's leadoff man for the past few years.

"Casey once told me he had me leading off because I can open the game with a home run," Bauer declared. "He figures it's good psychology to put the other team in a hole right at the start. When I hit 26 home runs back in 1956, I had six leading off."

Bauer, a right-handed batter, used to murder left-handed pitching. It was his weakness against right-handed pitchers, especially the side-armers, that prompted Stengel to bench him occasionally. This is what used to cause the always ready-and-willing ex-Marine to growl at Casey.

"It's a funny thing," Hank said, "but I hit better now against right-handers than I do against lefties. Of the 12 home runs I hit last year, only one was against a southpaw."

WOULD CHANGE STC NAMES

HARRISBURG (AP)—A bill in House committee today would grant to clergymen legal immunity to refuse to divulge confidential information in judicial proceedings.

Reps. Stephen McCann (D-Greene), James Musto (D-Luzerne), Harris G. Breth (D-Clearfield) and John H. Devlin (D-Allegheny) co-sponsored the proposal.

McCann said researchers uncovered the fact that clergymen lacked this immunity while investigating the law in reference to an earlier House bill extending to radio and television newsmen the right to withhold the name of confidential news sources.

Another new House bill would change the names of the 14 state teachers colleges by designating them simply as state colleges. In addition, Indiana State Teachers College would become Western Pennsylvania State University.

Reps. William A. Steckel (R-Lehigh), Van D. Yetter Jr. (D-Monroe), Gus Yatron (D-Berks) and William G. Buchanan (R-Indiana) were the sponsors.

Strauss Facing Battle For Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lewis L. Strauss starts today his battle for confirmation as secretary of commerce.

He faced determined opposition as he was called to testify before the Senate Commerce Committee. But there were indications his opponents will not be heard until after the Easter recess starting March 26.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), Strauss' most outspoken foe, calls Strauss the "chief promoter, defender and advocate" of the controversial Dixon-Yates power contract which Kefauver fought bitterly.

Committee Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) said that any fireworks over that issue will be put off until the committee has questioned Strauss thoroughly about commerce department policies.

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Ted Kluszewski, Dick Stuart and Rocky Nelson are fighting quite a battle to land the starting berth at first base for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

political power successively in each of the many areas which had been afflicted by war, so that in the end the United States, which was openly called the main enemy, would be isolated and closely encircled."

The current Berlin effort of the Soviets falls within the pattern of this basic purpose.

The first instance of unusual pressure, clearly evidencing these purposes, came in 1948 when the Communists imposed a blockade to force the protecting Western troops out of Berlin and to starve the people of the city into submission.

"This Plan Failed"

This plan failed. A free people and a dramatic airlift broke the back of the Communists' scheme.

In the end the Communists abandoned the blockade and concluded an agreement in 1949 with the Western powers, reconfirming our right of unrestricted access.

Reds Break Promises

Then, last November, the Soviets announced that they intended to repudiate these solemn obligations. They once more appear to be living by the Communist formula that "promises are like pie crusts, made to be broken."

The Soviet government has also announced its intention to enter into a peace treaty with the East German puppet regime. The making of this treaty, the Soviets assert, will deny our occupation rights and our rights of access. Both morally and legally it is, of course, clear that no so-called "peace treaty" between the Soviets and the East German regime can have any effect upon our rights.

Threat Is Repeated

The Soviet threat has since been repeated several times, accompanied by various and changing suggestions for dealing with the status of the city. Their proposals have included a vague offer to make the western part of Berlin — though not the eastern part — which the Soviets control — a so-called "free city."

It is by no means clear what West Berlin would be free from, except perhaps freedom itself. It would not be free from the ever present danger of Communist domination. No one, certainly not the two million West Berliners, can ignore the cold fact that this part of Berlin is surrounded by Eastern German troops and by territory governed by authorities dedicated to eliminating freedom from the area.

Can't Break Agreements

As a matter of principle, the United States cannot accept the right of any government to break, by itself, solemn agreement to which we, with others, are parties. But in the Berlin situation, both free people and principle are at stake.

What, then, are the fundamental choices we have in this situation?

First, of course, there is the choice which the Soviet rulers themselves would like us to make. They hope that we can be frightened into abandoning our rights — which are indeed responsibilities — to help establish a just and peaceful solution to the German problem — rights which American and Allied soldiers purchased with their lives.

"Won't Forget Rights"

We have no intention of forgetting our rights or of deserting a free people. Soviet rulers should remember that free men have, before this, died for so-called "scraps of paper" which represented duty and honor and freedom.

The shirking of our responsibilities would solve no problems for us. It would mean the end of all hopes for a Germany under government of German choosing. It would raise, among our friends the most serious doubts about the validity of all the international agreements and commitments we have made with them in every quarter of the globe. One result would be to undermine the mutual confidence upon which our entire system of collective security is founded.

"Choice Unacceptable"

This the Soviets would greet as a great victory over the West. Obviously, this choice is unacceptable to us.

The second choice which the Soviets have compelled us to face, is the possibility of war.

Certainly, the American and Western peoples do not want war. Global conflict under modern conditions could mean the destruction of civilization. The Soviet aware of this fact.

But all history has taught us the grim lesson that no nation has ever been successful in avoiding the terrors of war by refusing to defend its rights — by attempting to placate aggression.

Whatever risk of armed conflict may be inherent in the present Berlin situation, it was deliberately created by the Soviet rulers.

West Supports U. S.

The justice of our position is attested by the fact that it is ardently supported with virtual unanimity by the people of West Berlin.

The risk of war is minimized if we stand firm. War would become more likely if we gave way and encouraged a rule of terrorism rather than a rule of law and order. Indeed, this is the peace policy which we are striving to carry out throughout the world. In that policy is found the world's best hope for peace.

Our Final Choice

Our final choice is negotiation, even while we continue to provide for our security against every threat. We are seeking meaningful negotiation at this moment. The United States and its Allies stand ready to talk with Soviet representatives at any time and under any circumstances which offer prospects of worthwhile results.

We have no selfish material aims in view. We seek no domination over others — only a just peace for the world, and particularly, in this instance, for the people most involved.

We are ready to consider all proposals which may help to reassure and will take into account the European peoples affected.

Prepared To Negotiate

We are willing to listen to new ideas and are prepared to present others. We will do everything within our power to bring about serious negotiations and to make these negotiations meaningful.

Yet there must be a clear understanding of what we cannot do.

We cannot try to purchase peace by forsaking two million people of Berlin.

We cannot agree to any permanent and compulsory division of the German nation, which would leave Central Europe a perpetual powder mill, even though we are ready to discuss with all affected nations any reasonable methods for its eventual unification.

Dishonor Agreements

We cannot recognize the asserted right of any nation to dishonor its international agreements whenever it chooses. If we should accept such a contention the whole process of negotiations would become a barren mockery.

We must not, by weakness or irresolution, increase the risk of war.

Finally, we cannot, merely for the sake of demonstrating so-called "flexibility" accept any agreement or arrangement which would undermine the security of the United States and its Allies.

The Soviet note of March 2nd appears to be a move toward negotiation on an improved basis. We would never negotiate under a dictated time limit or agenda, or on other unreasonable terms. We are, with our Allies, however, in view of the changed tone Soviet note, concerting a reply to that note.

Hope For Agreement

It is my hope that thereby all of us can reach agreement with the Soviets on an early meeting at the level of foreign ministers. Assuming developments that justify a summer meeting at the summit, the United States would be ready to participate in this further effort.

Our position, then, is this: We will not retreat one inch from our duty. We shall continue to exercise our right of peaceful passage to and from West Berlin. We will not be the first to breach the peace; it is the Soviets who threaten the use of force to interfere with such free passage. We are ready to participate fully in every sincere effort at negotiation that will respect the existing rights of all and their opportunity to live in peace.

Not First Red Plot

Today's Berlin difficulty is not the first stumbling block that international communism has placed along the road to peace. The world has enjoyed little relief from tension in the past dozen years. As long as the Communist empire continues to seek world domination we shall have to face threats to the peace, of varying character and location. We have lived and will continue to live in a period where emergencies manufactured by the Soviets, follow one another like beads on a string.

"We Must Be Ready"

Whatever the length of that period, we shall have to remain continuously ready to repel aggression, whether it be political, economic or military. Every day our policies of peace will be subjected to test. We must have steadiness and resolution, and firm adherence to our own carefully thought-out policies.

We must avoid letting fear or lack of confidence turn us from the course that self-respect, decency and love of liberty point out. To do so would be to dissipate the creative energies of our people upon whom our real security rests. This we will never do.

Need Concerted Action

To build toward peace and maintain Free World security will require action in every field of human enterprise. It can only be done by the nations of the Free World working together in close cooperation, adjusting their differences, sharing their common burdens, pursuing their common goals. We are carrying out just such an effort. We call it mutual security.

We recognize that freedom is indivisible. Wherever in the world freedom is destroyed, by that much is every free nation hurt.

If the United States, alone, had to carry the full burden of defending its interests from the Communist threat, we would have to draft a much larger portion of our manhood into the armed services, spend many more billions of treasure, and put a more intense strain on all our resources and capabilities. We would become more and more like a garrison state.

50 Nations With Us

Fortunately, we do not have to adopt such a desperate course. Nearly 50 nations have joined with us in a cooperative effort to protect freedom.

This system of mutual security allows each nation to provide the forces which it is best able to supply.

What is the strength of these forces? What are we contributing to the joint effort? What can we count on from our Allies?

Let's look first at our own contribution. Let us look at it from the viewpoint of our own security. Of late I — and I am sure the American people — have heard or read conflicting claims about our defenses.

Defense Charges Untrue

We have heard that our military posture has been subordinated to a balanced budget, to the jeopardy of our national defense.

We have heard that our defenses are presently — or they will be sometime in the future — inadequate to meet recurrent Communist threats.

We have heard that more manpower in our forces than I have recommended is essential in the present circumstances, for psychological reasons if for no other.

My friends, such assertions as these are simply not true. They are without foundation. It is not likely, however, that such assertions will lead the Soviet Union to miscalculate our true strength — and this is indeed fortunate.

Best Defense Judgment

The design of our defense is the product of the best composite judgment available for the fulfillment of our security needs.

We are devoting great sums for the maintenance of forces capable of nuclear retaliatory strikes. This capability is our indispensable deterrent to aggression against us.

The central core of our deterrent striking force is our Strategic Air Command with its long range bombers. They are reinforced by Naval aircraft and missiles of varying types, and tactical fighter bombers. This array will soon include weapons of even greater power and effectiveness. The capacity of our combined striking forces represents an all-powerful, it is protected by a vast early warning system and powerful air defense forces.

Reach Any Target

More and more this great retaliatory force will feature intermediate as well as long range missiles capable of reaching any target on earth. As we steadily go through the transition period from bomber to missile as the backbone of this striking force, we nevertheless continue replacing bombers, powerful as we know them now to be, with others of greater power, range and speed. In this way we take care of the needs of this year and those immediately ahead, even as we plan, develop and build for the future. We are engaged in an endless process of research, development and production to equip our forces with new weapons.

Concentrate Resources

This process is tremendously costly, even should we consider it only in terms of money. If we are to master the problem of security over a prolonged period of time, we cannot forever borrow from the future to meet the needs of the present.

Therefore, we must concentrate our resources on those things we programs that make less decisive contributions to our nation. Effective defense comes first.

Today there is no defense field to which we are devoting more talent, skill and money than that of missile development.

I'd like to have you look at three lists of missiles.

Many Types Of Missiles

The first list shows seventeen different types of missile now in use by our armed forces.

The second list shows missiles that will be available for use in 1959. There are eleven different types.

The third list shows thirteen more types of missiles now in the research and development stages. In all there are forty-one types of missiles.

There is, of course, a constant parade of improvement, with newer and better weapons constantly crowding out the older less efficient ones.

Other Potent Forces

The first model of any new piece of equipment is always relatively primitive. The first sewing machine, the first typewriter, the first automobile — left much to be desired. And even the rockets that dazzle us today will soon become the model T's — the Tin Lizzies — of the missile age.

We must never become frozen in obsolescence.

In addition to the forces comprising our retaliatory striking power, we have potent and flexible naval, ground and amphibious elements. We have a growing array of nuclear-powered ships, both submarines and surface vessels.

Missile Units

World-wide deployment of army divisions, including missile units, increases the ability of the U.S. Army and the Marines to rapidly apply necessary force to any troubled area. At home the strategic army corps is ready and able to move promptly as needed to any area of the world.

I believe the American people want, are entitled to, can indefinitely pay for, now have and will continue to have a modern, effective and adequate military establishment. In this over-all conviction, I am supported by the mass of the best military opinion I can mobilize, and by scientific and every other kind of talent that is giving its attention to a problem to which I personally have devoted a lifetime.

Free World's Total

As all thoughtful citizens know, our own security requires the supplemental and reinforcing strength provided by the free world's total.

In the Far East, nations with which we are associated in a common defense system have over a million trained soldiers, standing watch over the free world frontiers.

In Europe, the efforts of fifteen nations are united to support freedom.

In global totals, our friends are contributing over 200 ground divisions, 30,000 aircraft, and 2,500 combatant naval vessels to the task of defending the free world.

5 For 1 For U. S.

For every soldier we have under arms, our free world allies have five.

Through each of these stout efforts we strengthen the bonds of freedom.

Our mutual security program supports this joint undertaking by helping to equip our partners with the weapons they cannot by themselves provide, and by helping them keep their economies strong.

Mutual Effort

This mutual effort provides a constructive, long-term answer to the recurrent crises engineered by the Communists. It strengthens the stability of free nations and lessens opportunities for Communist subversion and penetration. It supports economic growth and gives hope and confidence to the cause of freedom. It is America's strongest instrument for positive action in the world today.

Last Friday I sent to the Congress a special message presenting my recommendations for this important part of our defense and security program for the coming year. In my judgment, there is no better means of showing our resolution, our firmness, and our understanding of the Communist challenge than to support this program in full measure.

Vital To Security

These funds are vital to our national and free world security.

Any misguided effort to reduce them below what I have recommended weakens the sentries of freedom wherever they stand.

In this conviction, also, I am supported by the military experts of our government.

Fellow Americans, of one thing I am sure: that we have the courage and capacity to meet the stern realities of the present and the future. We need only to understand the issues and to practice the self-discipline that freedom demands.

Our security shield is the productivity of our free economy, the power of our military forces, and the enduring might of a great community of nations determined to defend their freedom.

We Are Free People

We have been, from the beginning, a free people — people who by their spiritual and moral strength and their love of country provide the mainspring for all we have done, are doing, and will do. In these truths we place our faith.

Together with our allies we stand firm wherever the probing finger of an aggressor may point. Thus we lessen the risk of aggression; thus we shall with resolution and courage, struggle ever forward to the dream of a just and permanent peace.

God helping us, we shall stand always equal to the challenge.

Thank you, and goodnight.

Marlan Brando Is Sued For Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—After a six-month separation from her husband, Marlon Brando, actress Anna Kashfi has filed suit for divorce.

The suit, filed Monday, said the Oscar-winning actor had caused her grievous mental suffering, distress and injury.

Miss Kashfi is vacationing in Hawaii with the couple's 10-month old son. She says she is a full blooded native of India. However, a Welsh factory worker, William Patrick O'Callaghan, says he is her father and she has no Indian blood.

The actress, 24, and Brando, 34, were married Oct. 11, 1957.

WOULD RAISE VOTING BILL DORM RATES

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Senate Education Committee today held legislation proposing a weekly increase of $3 in dormitory fees at Pennsylvania's 14 state teacher colleges.

The extra money would be set aside in special funds of the General State Authority to cover capital replacement, furniture and equipment.

The bill was introduced Monday. The extra money turned over by the colleges would be credited to them and made available for projects as needed.

The capital fund would accumulate at the rate of a penny for each cubic foot of dormitory built by the GSA. The furniture fund would be built up at the rate of 8 per cent of original cost of furnishings and equipment for each building.

MAY NOT ASK DEATH PENALTY FOR SLAYING

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—What penalty the state will seek against Mrs. Connie Nicholas for the slaying of her married lover outside the apartment of his younger woman friend still was a mystery today.

The state challenged and removed three prospective jurors on the opening day of Mrs. Nicholas' first-degree murder trial Monday when they said they couldn't vote for the death penalty.

But Dep. Prosecutor Judson F. Haggerty told a newsman the action didn't necessarily indicate the prosecution would press for the supreme penalty for the 42-year-old, twice-divorced secretary.

Killed In Cadillac

She is charged with the fatal shooting of Forrest Teel, 54, in his white Cadillac outside the apartment of Miss Laura Mowrer last July 31.

She was pale from her long stay in a hospital recovering from an overdose of sleeping pills she took in a suicide attempt after the shooting.

Teel was executive vice president of Eli Lilly & Co., big Indianapolis pharmaceutical manufacturing firm.

The state is expected to attempt to prove that Mrs. Nicholas bought the small revolver with which Teel was shot with the intention of killing him. She has said she bought the gun for protection on a planned trip to California, and that she shot in self defense when Teel struck her.

EX-HOODLUM SHOT TO DEATH

CHICAGO (AP)—Hyman (Heinie) Wainer, a prohibition era bootlegger who survived gangland shootings and who also escaped death in a bomb blast a year ago, was slain Monday night — in a gangland style shooting.

Wainer, 54, an ex-convict and liquor store operator, was shot four times in a parking lot at the rear of 3270 Lake Shore Drive, a plush North Side apartment building.

Police said an unidentified neighbor reported a man about 35 years old ran from the lot after Wainer was felled. Two bullets penetrated Wainer's chest from the back. He also was shot in the right arm and right shoulder.

Dies In Patrol Wagon

Wainer staggered into the apartment building and was taken to the 10th floor apartment of Miss Evelyn Goodman, a secretary in his liquor store. Miss Goodman, who called police, said Wainer had been living in her apartment for three years.

Wainer died in a patrol wagon on the way to a hospital. Miss Goodman said Wainer did not tell her any details of the shooting. Police said she could not give any motive for his slaying.

Wainer escaped a death plot on March 15, 1958, when a black-powder bomb in a coffee tin exploded under the hood of his car.

W. S. CULPEPPER DIES

EASTON, Pa. (AP)—Walter S. Culpepper Jr., 64, who served for 29 years as executive of the Delaware Valley Council of the Boy Scouts of America, died Monday at his home after a long illness.

FRANCE PERILS ITS BID FOR ATOM SECRETS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional sources said today France may have torpedoed her own bid for access to U.S. atomic submarine secrets by withholding her naval vessels from NATO command.

Although certain French fleet units had been committed to the North Atlantic Treaty command in the event of war, France notified NATO officials last week she had decided to keep the entire Mediterranean fleet under French command.

The sources said privately that decision of the De Gaulle government could prove the clinching argument for denial of the request.

Must Contribute

They contended the U.S. atomic energy law specifically provides that to be eligible for sharing such secrets, a nation must be making "substantial contribution to the mutual defense and security" of the free world.

"To withdraw the fleet from the Allied command would scarcely be in line with this provision," said a well placed congressional source who declined to be quoted by name.

There was no comment from the State Department.

France has asked, under the law, for a share of U.S. atomic submarine secrets and for permission to buy an American-made atomic power plant for such a vessel.

ABSENTEE IS STUDIED

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Senate Elections Committee studied legislation today that would make absentee voting possible in Pennsylvania.

The measure implements an amendment to the state Constitution approved by the voters at last

THE DRIVER'S SEAT

As we note science's space age achievements it's easy to forget that science is advancing on another front — making cars safer to drive.

In any future space child's history of 20th century automotive safety developments, it is certain that our scientists will be commended for five particularly outstanding contributions:

1) Seat belts: pioneering work in this area was done by the automotive crash injury research group at Cornell university. These November's general election. It was introduced by 13 Democratic Senators Monday.

The amendment allows voting by persons unavoidably away from their homes at election time, or unable to get to the polls because of physical disability.

Register By Mail

A companion bill would allow electors in a district to register by mail if they are in the armed forces, government civilian employees or are physically unable to go to their home county voter registration office.

The absentee voting bill carefully specifies that a qualified voter "shall in no wise be construed to include persons confined in any penal institution."

In Case Of Death

The measure also would set up procedure for anyone who wishes to vote in person after having taken advantage of an absentee ballot. He would appear before a local court and secure an emergency voter form signed by the court. The court would order the absentee ballot set aside.

The proposed law also makes provision for the voter who dies after mailing in his absentee ballot. If the elections officials know of the death, the ballot would be destroyed. However, the accidental counting of a dead person's ballot could not be the legal means for upsetting an election, under the provisions.

scientists found that belts can reduce automotive injuries as much as 60 per cent by preventing occupants from being thrown out of the vehicle in case of accident. Auto manufacturers are making belts available to drivers who want them.

Safety Glass

2) Safety glass: made of two sheets of exceptionally high tensile glass with a special clear plastic layer laminated between, safety glass will not break, even under sledge hammer force. This feature, standard equipment on cars today, has saved many lives and lessened the severity of injuries in auto accidents.

3) Safety tire rims: by the addition of a small metal hump to the inside of the rim, manufacturers have reduced the danger of blowouts that used to mean a fatality at speeds over 50 mph. The safety rim prevents the blown-out tire from whipping off the wheel and wrapping around the axle with lethal results.

4) Sealed-beam headlights: consisting of an aluminized reflector, accurately focused light source and an improved prismatic lens, the sealed-beam unit with dual filaments for high and low beams was a major step forward. Though night is still the most dangerous time to drive, headlight improvements have done much to help reduce the high accident potential of darkness.

5) Reflective Materials: applied to hazards, vehicles, and traffic signs, reflective materials shine brightly in headlights at night. These materials, which utilize tens of thousands of microscopic glass beads per square inch, deserve credit for making it possible for traffic to move safely on the highways at night. Traffic signs, our most widely used safety and guidance device, are made of reflective materials to attract attention to familiar colors and warnings at night, as well as by day. Development of efficient reflective materials that cause sign warnings to virtually "track" the driver's eyes as he approaches a danger point at night took years of painstaking research to develop.

When the day comes that we are regularly catching the 7:10 to Mars we ought not to have forgotten the achievements that kept us alive to make the spectacular space hops.

DECIDE FATE OF ELIZABETH DUNCAN TODAY

By JACK LEFLER
VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—A jury that reduced Elizabeth Duncan to tears when it convicted her of buying the murder of her daughter-in-law returns today to decide the punishment.

It has two alternatives—death in the gas chamber, or life imprisonment. But Mrs. Duncan still has a plea of innocent by reason of insanity to be settled before any sentence can take effect.

The 54-year-old defendant, smiling and optimistic when the jury filed in to announce its verdict Monday, took the first-degree murder conviction calmly at first. She turned to her 30-year-old attorney son, who sat at the counsel table beside her with his head bowed.

"Don't worry too much, Frank," she said.

Convicted Of Plot
It was Frank's pregnant bride, Olga, 30, whose murder she was convicted of plotting.

Then she was handcuffed and led back to her county jail cell. There her composure cracked. She broke down and cried. She sobbed repeatedly to her son and her attorney, S. Ward Sullivan: "I can't understand how the jury could do that to me, because I didn't do it."

Frank Duncan had nothing to say. He had sat beside his mother through the four-week trial. Testifying for her, he said he could not believe she would harm Olga, even though she had tried to break up their marriage.

Pair Admit Crime

The prosecution charged that Mrs. Duncan, fiercely jealous of her daughter-in-law, offered $6,000 to two minor criminals, Augustine Baldonado, 26, and Luis Moya, 20, to get rid of the Canadian-born nurse.

Baldonado and Moya confessed kidnapping Olga from her Santa Barbara apartment last Nov. 17, strangling her and burying the body in a shallow grave beside a country road. They led police to to receive a copy of the resolution of congratulations unanimously adopted by the House.

HARRISBURG (AP)—Miss Judi Humphrey, Lewistown, was congratulated personally by the House of Representatives today for winning the 1959 America's Junior Miss crown.

By far the proudest official visitor to the General Assembly this session, the 17-year-old high school senior read for the members Rudyard Kipling's poem, "If," the recitation she gave in winning the national title.

Treasury To Ask Debt Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—It won't be long until the Treasury asks Congress for another raise in the national debt ceiling.

Advance notice was given by Secretary Robert B. Anderson at closed hearings of the House Appropriations Committee. His testimony was made public Monday.

The debt is now within the temporary limit of 288 billions which Congress last year authorized until July 1.

Last year, Congress increased the permanent statutory debt limit to 283 billion dollars. To enable the Treasury to meet its obligations, it added another five billion dollars to the maximum debt limit for one year.

Man Holds Breath For 13 Minutes

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP)—An electronics technician held his breath under water for 13 minutes and 42.5 seconds — long enough to have written a letter — if he'd had a ball point pen.

He claimed a new world record.

Robert Foster, 32, of Richmond, Calif., a member of the Marin Skindivers Club, said he beat the old record by 7.5 seconds. Before entering the pool, Foster gulped pure oxygen administered by an anaesthetist for 30 minutes to drive all carbon dioxide from his lungs.

YOUTH ADMITS MURDERING 17 YEAR OLD GIRL

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Newark police Monday night arrested Joseph Ernst of Camden and said he has admitted killing 17-year-old Joan Connor there last Sunday.

Ernst, 22, was charged with homicide, atrocious assault and battery and possession of a dangerous weapon. He surrendered without a struggle and told police he shot the girl because she had turned him in to the Parole Board.

Robert E. Lee, 22, of Newark, was taken into custody along with Ernst. Police said that Lee also was charged with atrocious assault and battery for his alleged part in another shooting.

Cornered In Apartment
Police armed with riot guns and tear gas cornered the two men in an apartment occupied by Lee's brother-in-law and sister, Mrs. Shirley Saskowitz, 23.

Apparently Lee's mother told police where they could find her son and she pleaded with him to come out without causing trouble. He did.

Ernst stayed inside a bit longer, as Charles Saskowitz pleaded for the safety of his two young children who might be injured in a gun battle. Camden police say that Ernst admitted shooting Miss Connor at the home of her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Linden, with whom she was preparing to go out.

Her killer rang the doorbell and asked to see her. As she went to meet him, he fired through a glass section of the front door.

Ernst and Miss Connor had apparently dated a few times. He was on parole for car theft and accused her of turning him into the Parole Board.

For this, he allegedly hit her end of the war.

over the head with a bottle and fled to Newark after her father swore out an atrocious assault and battery complaint.

But he returned to Camden, intent on getting even—and the result was Sunday's shooting, police say.

MANILA (AP)—Two Japanese went into the jungle Sunday in an effort to get two World War I holdouts to surrender, but their answer was a volley of shots.

The holdouts took refuge in the jungle of Lugano Island after the

A Growing Gas Transmission System Is a Busy Place For Engineers

Did you ever wonder what an engineer with a pipeline company does—exactly?

He's got a mighty important job at Texas Eastern. We've got all kinds—mechanical, chemical, electrical, civil, petroleum. They're found in all types of work—administrative, research and planning, compressor station and pipeline design and construction, drafting, communications, materials, budgets and plant records, just to name a few.

The engineer at Texas Eastern is a member of a vast technical team. For instance—if a customer needs more gas, say, 100 million cubic feet a day, it's not just a simple matter of someone saying "give it to them."

Gas reserve engineers have to determine that enough gas is available to fill the request—not just for a short time but for many years. Then the planning and research engineers go to work to determine how best to get the gas delivered (they may have to add a new compressor station, new pipeline or the system may carry the load just as it is).

The gas is available, a method to deliver it has been determined. The next step is to construct the needed facilities. Drafting engineers draw many plans, construction engineers plan sites for compressor stations and routes for new pipelines, material men begin purchasing needed equipment and supplies, contracts are planned and executed.

During this time engineers have been planning construction budgets and operating costs. Communications engineers have been planning the best equipment to install at the compressor station (if one is needed). And, anticipating the time when the work will be completed and the new facilities will be placed in operation, engineers handling plant records begin setting up records to keep accurate information on the plant property, its initial cost, operating costs, how it can be improved and things to keep in mind when new facilities are constructed.

Texas Eastern's large investment in a wide variety of engineering talent has proved to be a sound one. Returns on this investment are found in dependability and efficiency of system operation so customers know that with Texas Eastern handling the transportation job, natural gas will always be available to meet their needs.

The Day Christ Died

Herod Antipas, a crafty schemer, is delighted that he is to meet Jesus, who once referred to him as "that fox." He promises a show of magic to his friends, and is disappointed and humiliated when Jesus ignores his request for a demonstration of power.

9 A.M.
April 7, A.D. 30

THE PRIESTS could hardly believe their ears when Pilate told them to take Jesus before Herod. The governor had been aware of this troublemaker and his origins and, if it were a matter of jurisdiction, could have told Caiaphas last night that the prisoner properly belonged to Herod, who was in Jerusalem for the Passover.

This amounted to dangerous meddling in the internal affairs of Palestine. The mock Messiah was a Jew, charged with a religious crime in Jerusalem, to which was added a crime against the empire. How then could He be brought before Herod, whose jurisdiction was confined to Galilee?

Pilate stood. He would not entertain an argument about the matter. The procurator nodded to the soldiers to take the Man Jesus in charge and deliver Him to King Herod.

Gesture Of Friendship
He had, he thought, done a bright thing. There had been no communication between him and Herod since the time that Pilate's soldiers had mistakenly killed Herod's subjects on the temple grounds. The Roman was now making a gesture of friendship, or respect. Herod could not interpret it in any other way, and he would be forced by custom to reciprocate in some way. Thus the breach between the two would be healed over the worthless body of a Galilean.

Further, the gesture forced Herod to become part of the trial of Jesus. Now, no matter what happened, the king could hardly write any lying, poisonous letter to Tiberius about Pilate and the case of Jesus.

Embroiders Herod
In one brilliant stroke Pilate had removed himself from a highly sensitive case, had embroidered Herod in it, had at the same time made a gesture of high regard to Herod, and had placed Annas and Caiaphas in a dangerous, almost untenable position. The procurator returned to his office well pleased.

At the gate of Fortress Antonia the priests argued among themselves about what should have been said to Pilate, and what had been said. They were very worried. The more time that passed, the more of Jesus' sympathizers might find out what was happening.

There was nothing to do, however, but proceed to Herod. Caiaphas dispatched a courier to run ahead and acquaint the tetrarch with the circumstances.

Herod and his court had come down from Galilee three days before to sacrifice at the temple. According to his custom when he was in residence in Jerusalem, he was using the Hasmonean Palace, which was close to the Nystus Gate of the Temple.

Became Steadfast Friends
When King Herod heard the news from the courier he was so elated that he at once resolved to heal the breach between himself and Pilate. (They were steadfast friends after this day.) He thought it was unusually diplomatic of the procurator to send the Galilean to the King of the Galileans. Then too, he welcomed the chance to meet the Man who had once referred to him as "That fox!"

The appellation "fox" was apt. Herod was crafty, a schemer. He was not cruel, as Pilate could be cruel, or mercenary, as Annas could be mercenary. He may have been mentally disordered. His father had killed his mother, and then had called her name loudly through the palace corridors for weeks.

His ancestors had showed extremes of ambition and extremes of jealousy, coupled with chronic fears of persecution. All the Herods changed political allegiance as a weathercock changes direction in a variable breeze. They were shifty allies.

Always Wore Trappings
Herod was a medium-tall man with a paunch and a square-cut beard. He wore the trappings of his office—crown, royal cape, scepter—at all possible times.

As his father's haunting specter was the wife he had killed, so too Antipas had one which he could not blot out of his mind. This was John the Baptist, whom the king had had beheaded because Herodias' daughter, Salome, had asked it as a favor for a dance.

The king had been reluctant to do it—more than reluctant—but he had promised Salome anything within his power, and she wanted the head of the Baptist. When it was presented to her, Herod Antipas found that he could never shut the scene from his mind.

Now he was about to confront the Man who, in Herod's eyes, resembled John the Baptist. He could atone partially for what he had done to the Baptist by sparing the life of this one. In any case, he was as eager to see Jesus as a child would be to watch a fire eater.

Keep Crowds Outside
The big party of marchers arrived at the gates of the palace of Herod, and the servants told the high priests to keep the crowds outside. Only the priests, Jesus, and the Roman guards were admitted.

The Messiah saw the palace close up for the first time. It had beauty that would take a peasant's breath away. Some said that it looked like a big white eagle with its wings out, about to land. It was built in two wings of snowy marble without grain or trace of discoloration.

Jesus could not be impressed. The things He knew about Antipas were engraved deeply in His mind. The king was the murderer of the Nazarene's cousin John. The king was a coward who could remain loyal to no one. The king was an adulterer who had stolen his own brother's wife. The king would do nothing in this case except ask for a show of power.

Treated As Guest
The group went into the palace and Herod treated the prisoner as a guest. He offered chairs to all, but Jesus stood. Nor were the high priests eager to sit down. They were nervous about the remaining time before the Sabbath and they wanted to waste as little time as possible with Herod. They could not prove charges of blasphemy in Galilee, and they hoped solely to get the vindictive support of Herod so that they could hurry back to Pilate and announce that Jesus was also a blasphemer in the court of Herod.

The king was cordial; he admitted that he had heard much about Jesus. Jesus said nothing. Herod persisted. If Jesus of Nazareth had indeed been sent by God, Herod would be happy to witness a few simple demonstrations of this power. Would Jesus mind performing? There was no answer. A small feat of magic, perhaps? A little miracle? Could He make water pour from the walls or thunder roll through the sky?

Herod Was Irritated
Silence. It might help the case for Jesus, the tetrarch said, if He were more co-operative. The

Vultures Arrive Right On Schedule

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The town of Hinckley, southwest of Cleveland, thinks a lot of its vultures. Apparently the turkey vultures think a lot of Hinckley.

At least the vultures think a lot of Hinckley Lake, for they have been returning to roost in tall elms on the shore of the lake for as long as people around there can remember.

For at least 26 years, the Cleveland Metropolitan Park Board has had someone check on the flock of buzzards. Every year the birds have arrived on March 15.

At least 25 big vultures — their wingspans range up to 5½ feet — swooped down out of a windy March sky Sunday right on schedule.

priests filled the gap of silence with recitations of all the crimes Jesus had committed. Herod, irritated, shouted them into silence. He had promised a show of magic to his friends, and the magician had disappointed him and humiliated him.

He stood up and reviled Jesus. From the dregs of memory, he brought up epithets recalled only in unreasoning anger: He mocked Jesus and taunted Him. He called Him a king of nothing and a monarch of no one. The tetrarch walked around the prisoner, making personal remarks about His shabby appearance, His lacerated face, His dirty garments, the now-unwashed feet, the swollen eyes. A king indeed! Pray, king of what?

Puts Cloak On Jesus
Antipas had an idea. He called one of his assistants and whispered to him. Then he winked at the priests, and everyone waited in silence. In a few minutes the aide returned with a beautiful cloak. It was a garish red garment such as might be worn by the king of a nomadic tribe. It was more theatrical than kingly.

Herod took it in his hands and shook the dust from it. Then, with a friendly smile, he swung it over the shoulders of Jesus and tied the red ropes at the collar.

It was comic. Even the high priests were forced to smile. Jesus made the most sorrowful and ridiculous king any of them had seen.

King Herod Antipas ordered the prisoner returned to Pilate. And Jesus staggered with weakness as He started still another journey. He had been standing for many hours.

What scheme is devised by the high priests to insure the death of Jesus, as the mocked and pitiable Messiah is returned to Pontius Pilate? Don't miss the outcome of their infamous plan in Wednesday's installment of Jim Bishop's "The Day Christ Died."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter urged Congress Monday to vote President Eisenhower's $3,930,000 foreign aid program. He said no other expenditure could contribute more "to the achievement of the great objectives of our national life."

Herter opened the administration's drive to head off the cuts many members of the heavily Democratic Congress are determined to make in the program.

PTA PONDERES DISINTEREST OF PARENTS

Means of arousing the interest of parents in the school and the scholastic achievement of their children, especially among those parents who evidence no interest, were the subject of a lengthy discussion Thursday evening at a meeting of the Mother Seton School PTA, Emmitsburg, in the school cafeteria.

Among the suggestions heard were that the parents receive the report card directly and discuss the needs of the child with the teacher; that appointments be made for parents after school hours to discuss the needs and expectations of the child with the teacher; that class mothers contact the parents individually or that members of the membership committee contact the parents before each PTA meeting.

Sister Francis, principal, reported that records show approximately one-third of the parents come to the meetings occasionally, one-third attend the meetings regularly and one-third never attend.

Consider Affiliation
Mrs. J. J. Dillon was appointed to find out what the advantages of membership in the National Association of Parent-Teacher Association are, and whether or not membership would justify the dues which are considered quite high. Also discussed was the question of the association financing trips to nearby places of educational value for the various grades. A suggestion was made to include only the three highest grades in this plan. However, the Eighth grade is always given a trip at the end of the school year. If these trips were made, it was suggested, the children should be told in advance what they would be expected to look for, in order that they get the maximum educational value from the trip. Some of the group thought it better to buy much needed supplementary books and films for the school instead. The transportation committee is to check on bus charges for trips to Annapolis, Washington and Baltimore.

Sister Francis expressed her sincere thanks to all the parents who helped make the recent Bishops Relief Fund Fair a success. A total of $432 was cleared from the affair. This amount was divided among the four parishes, represented in the school, and checks sent to the respective pastors.

Robert Koontz, treasurer, reported a balance of $483.22. Sister Francis closed the meeting with a prayer, after which the film, "Christ the King," was shown.

NEW YORK (AP) — G. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, says that imposing a city tax on stock transfers — as proposed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner — might force the exchange to move out of New York.

Funston Sunday called the proposal a "totally unsound scheme to make investors throughout the country help solve the city's financial difficulties."

M'BRIDE IN BOTH RACES FOR BENCH

HARRISBURG (AP) — Justice Thomas D. McBride today provided the only opposition to organization-backed Democratic and Republican candidates for state Supreme Court.

He filed on both tickets in opposition to Judge Michael J. Eagen of Lackawanna County for the Democratic nomination and Superior Court Judge Blair F. Gunther, Pittsburgh, for the GOP nomination.

Eagen and Gunther submitted their nomination petitions Monday, the last day to do so. McBride, a Democrat, also will run on the GOP ticket.

A candidate for judge is the only one allowed under Pennsylvania law to file on both tickets.

The $30,000-a-year seat on the high court will be filled for a 21-year term this year. McBride is serving an interim appointment he received last year from former Governor M. Leader after the death of Justice John C. Arnold, Clearfield.

The state Elections Bureau also received nomination petitions from unopposed candidates for Superior Court nominations, Re. Albert W. Johnson, Smethport attorney and House Republican floor leader, filed on the GOP ticket and Judge Harry Montgomery of Allegheny County, on the Democratic ticket.

The Superior Court seat, paying $28,000 a year for 10 years, is being vacated by the impending retirement of Judge William E. Hirt, Erie Republican.

Albert E. Eberman, bureau director, said he rejected a mailed nomination petition from former state Sen. John J. Haluska who sought to file for the Democratic nomination for the Cambria County Common Pleas Court.

Haluska, an insurance man and hospital administrator, was ruled out under a Justice Department opinion which says that only a lawyer can run for judge. The Constitution provides that judges must be "learned in the law."

Haluska said at his Cresson home that he will appeal the rejection in the courts.

Husband Of Irene Castle Succumbs

EUREKA SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — George Enzinger, 66, husband of the famed dancing star Irene Castle Enzinger, died at his home here Sunday. Cause of death was not announced, but he had been in ill health for some time.

Enzinger, an advertising executive, was a native of St. Louis, Mo.

He and Mrs. Enzinger purchased a 10-acre fruit farm near Eureka Springs in 1954.

Mrs. Enzinger and her former husband, Vernon Castle, rose from obscurity to international acclaim as dancers before World War I. Castle enlisted in the Air Force in that war and was killed in a plane crash.

REDS GAIN IN FRENCH VOTE

PARIS (AP) — Returns from the final round in France's two-stage municipal elections showed Monday that the Communists held their own or forged ahead in most of the key town councils.

Voters in 17,700 communities turned out Sunday to finish the job they began a week ago under a new electoral system tailored to trim communism's grass roots hold on the electorate.

Despite a week of maneuvering alliances, the anti-Communists failed to cut deep into the Red representation.

Recapture 26 Councils

A check of the largely pro-Communist working class suburbs of Paris indicated the Reds had recaptured 26 of the 28 local councils they controlled after the last municipal elections in 1953. They lost one town hall and returns from the 28th were not yet available.

The Reds also picked up at least four seats in the council of the Seine Department, which embraces the entire Paris region. The Communists now will have 59 of the 150 members.

TORONTO (AP) — Hibbard O. Ball, 54, executive vice president of Pitman-Moore Co., Indianapolis pharmaceutical firm, died Friday of a heart attack. He had been with the firm about 32 years.

Names Rockwell For Finance Job

HARRISBURG (AP) — George I. Bloom, Republican state chairman, has appointed Col. Willard F. Rockwell, Pittsburgh, to head the GOP State Finance Committee.

Rockwell, an industrialist and builder, succeeds Norman T. Hayes, retired Philadelphia financier, in the fund-raising post.

Bloom said Hayes accepted the appointment last Aug. 1 with the understanding that it would be for the duration of the campaign. Hayes took over the job from Arthur T. McGonigle, who was the party's unsuccessful candidate for governor in the fall election.

"I hope Col. Rockwell's acceptance of this important post will convince more businessmen that they can perform tremendous service for the Republican party by individually enlisting in its active programs," Bloom said.
